NOTE FROM THE CEO

Data protection & privacy have potentially never received as much attention in human history as they do now, mainly due to the internet profoundly altering our perception of privacy and the significance of safeguarding personal data. With governments worldwide seeking to regulate data, particularly digital data, corporations are scrambling to keep pace and establish policies and practices to adapt to the constantly evolving regulatory framework. CTOs, CISOs, GCs, in-house counsel, compliance & risk officers, practicing lawyers & data protection professionals, are all looking to upskill and learn more about this rapidly evolving area of law.

Recently, I have had the privilege and good fortune of closely interacting with Rahul Matthan (Partner - TMT, Trilegal), an exceptional lawyer, specializing in the area of Technology & Data Protection.

Rahul has graciously agreed to participate in a webinar discussion, on how to tackle the challenges of maintaining data integrity and remaining compliant with current and forthcoming privacy laws. Slots for this webinar are limited, so I encourage you to sign up immediately.

We will also unveil a Toolkit specifically designed to simplify data protection and privacy requirements into comprehensive and actionable steps. By leveraging this Toolkit, organizations can strengthen their data security practices, ensure regulatory compliance, and foster a culture of privacy.

Thank you and I look forward to seeing you at the webinar.
